"I THOUGHT I WAS GOING TO CRY"

By Rob Garrett

First some background. I bought my very first bike in January this year and also began riding for the first time in January.

I am 35 and sometimes wonder what took so long. My plan was just to go out in the woods with some buddies and that was it. I went to Thundercross to practice on the Saturday and support FTR friends of mine on Sunday's race. Because of the creation of the 30+ C class and the description given that it was for beginners and no double jumping I thought, heck, I can do that and now I love it. I think racing with 15-20 guys is safer than practicing with 30-40 guys it's great and want to thank FTR for this opportunity.

Now my daughter, Robbi-Anne, who is 8 and has only 12 hours of riding is also racing. This leads to the story below.

At MESA Park October 28, my family and I went to participate in the FTR race. My 8 year old daughter Robbi-Anne and I were race participants with me being the veteran with two prior races under my belt. Saturday we had a great day of practice, weather was perfect and no accidents.

Sunday, Robbi-Anne and I prayed for safety and wisdom and set out for the big day. She was in the fifth heat PeeWee C class. When the gate dropped she left at the same time as the other riders and while giving it all she had, was left in a cloud of dust. This made me think at first that she was in the A or B class. Startled a bit and with no one stopping her we continued to race.

The ruts from the practice and prior motos were getting pretty deep and she was struggling with trying to rail the turns. She fell a couple of times and was up and back on before I could run to her. Then she came into a turn after a plateau and single, and she was at full throttle. She hit the rut, her front wheel washed out and she fell with a horrible thud right in from of me. She began to cry and was in the line of traffic, the other parents of the A & B but in C class riders yelled, "go around! keep going! you're going to lose!"

As Robbi-Anne laid there with dirt in her mouth and her telling me her head hurt, I moved her off the track and then her bike. By now a flagger was there and another parent asking if we needed medical attention for my son, they were surprised when I took off her helmet.

I told them that I thought she was fine and we would walk off the side after traffic passed. At that time my daughter looked at me and said "Dad?" yeah, "I have to finish this race" I said, no you don't, she said, "yes I do." It took me a second or so but I had to make a very important decision which could impact her decision making in the future. Do we quit, and take the easy way out? Do we finish and risk further injury? Finally I looked her in the eye and said, do you want to finish. She said, "Yes." So I put her helmet on, proud and full of guilt at the same time, and I sent her back out. She fell two more times and got back up, started the bike before I could get there and crossed that finish line.

This experience was her first big life test and she passed with flying colors. It was totally her decision and I have never been so proud and nervous at the same time ...I thought I was going to cry.

FTR & the Florida Department of Environmental Protection (DEP)

Many positive things are happening in Tallahassee at DEP regarding motorized recreation. DEP wants to get more motorized trail project applications. We have the support of DEP Office of Greenways and Trails, DEP Greenways and Trails Council, DEP Recreation planning staff, right on up to the Secretary of DEP.

FTR clubs and FTR members need to be out there working with local land managers to get these project applications prepared. The opportunity is there. FTR members (Jack Terrell and Gary Williams) are members of the Recreation Trails Program grant evaluation committee. FTR members are also members of the DEP Greenways and Trails Council Motorized Recreation Committee (Jack Terrell, Gary Williams and Jack Martin). The FTR Land Use Chairman (Jack Terrell) is the chairman of the DEP Greenways and Trails Council Motorized Recreation committee.

DEP has included motorized trail recreation in an 18 page educational booklet distributed to tens of thousands of school kids. Content was solicited from and reviewed with FTR before publication. DEP is changing the SCORP (Statewide Comprehensive Outdoor Recreation Plan) to include motorized recreation. Content and wording was provided by FTR. This is a major step forward.

We have been asked by DEP to be a major provider of content and field workshops at the National Trails Symposium to be hosted by Florida DEP at Gjeneleaf next November. FTR was instrumental in helping DEP win the bid to host this prestigious national conference that will attract thousands of attendees from all over the US. Another example of how we are working hand in hand with DEP to promote our "Responsible Motorcyclist" image with government, other user groups and the general public.

This is how FTR is working every day to be recognized as an important resource and "solution," rather than a "problem" in the eyes of government and land managers. We have worked hard and long to get to this point, but things are changing. We no longer are on the outside looking in. We cannot sit back and let up. We need to keep pressing to change things in our favor.

New Property

The weekend before the Azalea City hare scrambles, Ryan Crist and I set off to the Rodman Plantation near Palatka. The FTR Benefit race was getting closer and it was time to get to the property and get some trail figured out. Normally on a new piece of property, the best way to start things off is to ride the perimeter of the property and all of the crossroads, just to get your bearings and an idea of what the property looks like. You know, things like, where the wet areas are, where the dry areas are, planted pines, oak sections, palmetto sections, sandy sections, ditches, mud bogs, clear cut areas, where the deer hang out, where the hogs hang out, is there any dove, quail or turkeys, you know, all that important stuff.

I will tell you right now 5,500 acres is a large piece of property! The late afternoon started out in a pretty good fashion. We had cruised the better part of the outskirts of the south, east and part of the north perimeter roads. When all of a sudden, one of the bikes blew a base gasket and started overheating. As it was getting late, like almost dark (30 minutes to go), the only thing to do was turn the gas off and lay the bike down in the weeds. You know, the old, we'll come back and get it tomorrow deal! So here we go, doubled up on my old CR500, we're off and running.

At this point, you're probably thinking, oh that's not too bad of a quick run back to the camp and no harm done. One would think that, huh! Here it is, now 20 minutes before total darkness, we are on a piece of property that is about five miles square, the deer are out, the hogs are out and we don't know where we are and no time to check out the game. Off we go, southwest was the way we had to go, no problem there, as we were following the roads and the disappearing sun.

As luck would have it, after several trips down some dead end roads and only finding some roads that were heading west, we kept moving along. South a ways, west a ways, west a ways more, then south a ways. By now our friend, the sun, was out of sight, we were in the twilight when we finally came across a paved road. The landowners had placed a six foot high pile of trees, brush and miscellaneous everything to block the local people from entering their property. I walked around and found a perfectly good place where Ryan Crist could get a good running start, hit some logs that were laying there, skip off of some of the brush that was piled up about 5 feet high and have a perfectly good landing spot in a large section of palmettos just on the other side. What a better plan could you have, after all it was my bike and he is a AA Rider, no problem. Except he didn't quite see the same picture as I did. I crawled back over the pile of STUFF and explained how easy it would be for a rider of his experience to pull it off. I also mentioned the fact that if he didn't get the motorcycle on the other side real quick, we would be spending the night right there in that spot. I also mentioned the fact that it was my motorcycle and it knew how to go places without a rider on board! That was the clincher, I don't have enough time to give everyone all the details of that Evil Kinevel Jump, but there were no broken bones and the CR500 suffered only minor damage. A local guy was coming down the paved road and I flagged him down, Hey, which way to the entrance to the Rodman Plantation friend, he said it was only a half mile back down the paved road. I thanked him for his directions and we were off. A quick ride on the paved road and back to the motorhome and just think, we had 5 minutes to spare before it was totally dark. Man oh Man, what an afternoon. Now the only thing left to do was, let me see ...Just where did we leave that broken down bike.

But then again, that's another story!

Forearm Pump

Dear Readers and Riders,

This issue's topic is one that is probably familiar to all riders. Every-one that rides has had it and has hated it. It can ruin the best ride of your life. It can come on slow or fast and even put you out of a race. It's every riders worst friend. It is known as "forearm pump". There is nothing worse than enjoying a great ride, and then it happens - your forearms tighten up so bad you can't even control the handlebars or even pull in the clutch lever. It's bad enough when your bike fails you but it's even worse when your body fails you.

So why does this happen? In the forearm, there are many muscles that control the motion of the hand and wrist. These muscles are attached to the bones around the elbow and then become long thin tendons as they head towards their attachments to bones in the fingers and wrist. (Fig. 1) If you make a fist you can feel the muscles in your forearm enlarge as they contract to move the fingers. If you pretend to be playing the piano, you can see the tendons move on the back of your hand as your fingers move. The muscles on the outside of your forearm, extend or straighten your fingers and wrist, and the muscles on the inside contract to flex or bend your fingers and wrist. The problem with forearm pump is that all these muscles are used thousands of times during a ride to steer the bike and operate the clutch, brake, and throttle. In our sport, these muscles undergo continuous action against resistance for hours to operate the bike. These muscles never get a chance to relax. Any time you continuously use your muscles like this they are subject to fatigue and this is what contributes to this condition.

When your muscles become tired they don't function at an optimal level, which results in a strain of the muscle tissue. This causes a breakdown of the muscle tissue which releases certain chemicals that stimulate special nerves in the muscles and tendons. Stimulation of these nerves leads to the sensation of pain and soreness that you feel. If your muscles are not conditioned for this kind of use it occurs quicker. This is why forearm pump is worse at the beginning of the season when your muscles are not accustomed to the continuous use. This is the same type of muscle soreness that is experienced after starting a new exercise program or trying to ride an enduro your first time out on the bike after not riding for a few months. I'm guilty of doing it every year. I think I'm in good shape, go out and race and then can't even walk for the next three days because I'm so damn sore. Your muscles just are not accustomed to that kind of abuse. This soreness can happen in any muscle but is felt more in your forearms because of the constant use of those muscles to control the bike. Muscle soreness is usually delayed by 24 to 48 hours, but in the case of forearm pump it can happen almost immediately. The muscles in the forearm are surrounded by a thin tissue called fascia that forms a compartment around the muscles, sort of like the thin skin around a sausage link. This fascia doesn't stretch much as the muscles swell, causing the pressure in the compartment to rise, resulting in pain. The swelling and breakdown leads to decreased strength of the muscles and that means you can't control the bike as well. The bottom line is that it puts you at risk for a crash and possible injury.

Other factors contribute to forearm pump like heat and dehydration, which go hand in hand since dehydration is more likely while riding on a hot day. Don't forget though, that you can still get dehydrated even while racing on a cold, wet ride. Dehydration causes an imbalance in your electrolytes which help your muscles function at their maximum. Without these electrolytes you put your muscles at risk for easy fatigue and cramping.

So how do you avoid forearm pump? Not all of us are lucky enough to have forearms like Popeye the sailor, so by training to condition and strengthen these muscles, you can prepare them for the high demands placed on them during a race. This will decrease the chances of experiencing the dreaded forearm pump. Strengthening of these muscles is done using resistance training, which means using the muscles against some form of weight - usually dumbbells. The two exercises performed are wrist curls and wrist extensions. Choose a weight that you can repeat about 10 - 15 times. You should be able to complete 3-5 sets of 10 repetitions of that weight. You can increase the amount of weight as the exercise becomes easier for you. Wrist curls are done by laying your arm flat on a bench with your hand and wrist hanging over the edge. With the weight in your hand, curl your wrist upward. Wrist extensions are done the same way, but by turning your forearm over and then pulling your wrist back. (Figs. 2 and 3) If you use a straight bar, you can exercise both forearms at once. Remember that you need to condition the muscles, so starting these exercises two days before the season won't do much good. Start these exercises, daily, at least two months before you start to ride or race on a regular basis for optimal results. This gives your muscles time to adapt. Keep training even during the season because it will only benefit your performance. Of course there is no better training than to actually get out and ride, but strength training will only enhance your power, flexibility, and strength. Riding is the only way to actually simulate how your muscles will function while controlling the bike. Another way of exercising your forearms is to get a sponge ball or a spring loaded grip device. You can use these any time and can get them at most sporting goods stores.

Flexibility is also important to help prevent muscle strain and should be done along with your strength training. Flexibility describes the amount of motion of your joints. This is done by holding muscles in a stretched position, usually 15 seconds to 1 minute and repeating it 3-5 times. To stretch your forearm muscles, stick your arm straight out in front of you and cock your wrist back and point your fingers up (the "stop" position) and with your other hand pull your fingers back towards you. To stretch the opposite side of your forearm, flex your wrist and point your fingers down again using your other hand to pull your fingers toward you. (Figs. 4 and 5) Stretching should be done before and after you exercise or ride.

Some other things you can try include:

1. Change grips - some riders think smaller grips help while others think larger diameter grips are better. Try both to see which is best for you. Boyesen makes the "Flex-Grip" product that gives you some movement on the usually locked left grip on your bars.
2. Loosen the elastic straps on your elbow guards and gloves - the straps limit blood flow if too tight.
3. Loosen up - message your arms and stretch before you ride. Lose the death grip on the bars and relax.
4. Having a soft clutch lever also helps to reduce muscle fatigue.
5. Try a sports or arthritis cream - rub it on your forearms about 10 minutes before you ride.
6. Always stay hydrated when riding hard.
7. Try some bananas - there is anecdotal reports that the potassium in them helps prevent pump.

In summary, to help avoid the frustration of forearm pump, try to strengthen and stretch your muscles before and during the riding season. If you do experience while your riding, try to stretch and take a rest. But like most of us, you can try to ride through it. Just know your limits so you don't get hurt. Ride On!

ATV's with engine sizes of 90cc or greater are recommended for use only by those age 16 and older. Yamaha recommends that all ATV riders take an approved training course. For safety and training information, see your dealer or call the ATV Safety Institute at 1-800-887-2887. ATVs can be hazardous to operate. For your safety: always avoid paved surfaces. Never ride on public roads. Always wear a helmet, eye protection and protective clothing; never carry passengers; never engage in stunt riding and alcohol/drugs don't mix; avoid excessive speed and be particularly careful on difficult terrain. Accessory offer subject to dealer participation. See dealer for details.

Racey Gator Hare Scrambles

What's Hot

The Racy Gator hare scrambles, put on the by the Central Florida Trail Riders, brought nothing but hot comments from the FTR. If it wasn't the good parking, the huge starting area with no more than 25 bikes on a row or the super fun PeeWee track, it was the eight quality port-a-lets, complete with hand sanitizer and a mirror, for us lady racers, you KNOW that's important.

About two hours of racing for most riders (unless you were stuck in the mud) accompanied by half hour breaks in between left you enough time to clean up, wash your face (hopefully), and get back up to the start to watch the next race.

The track had some fun water crossings, a few mud holes, which made for excellent spectating and lots of good ol' Florida palmettos. You gotta love those palmettos. And if you got the pre-race jitters, the Fore family provided us with home cooked chow that hit the spot. You can't beat that.

Being the fastest A rider this race (not including AA), Jaco Wolmarans #26 in A 200 finished in the 5th spot overall and beat his class by almost 4 minutes. That is runnin' hot. In B 200, Clay Lyons #12 was especially hot and won by about 6 minutes to Ruby Bronson #199. There were a lot of lead changes due to getting hung up in the mud, it could be a loooooong time before you got out.

In Super-Duper Senior A, Gary Rorstorm #76 came out with the win right in front of Bob Vaughan #33. It musta been a tight race because they were battling it out until the chicane and finished within a second of each other. Now that's racing. In the Super Senior B class, Wade Anderson #7 and Steve Ness #23 finished with the same time but got scored as 2nd and 3rd. Is that possible? Holly Jones #125 smoked 'em in Women B and finished a good 15 minutes in front of my girl Kelsey O'Donnell #28 for 2nd place. See ya soon in Women A girlie.

What's Not

32 riders in Mini C and only 1 rider in Mini A. Come on...let's go!!

Rodman Plantation Hare Scrambles

What's Hot

The FTR spent 2 HOT weekends at the Rodman Plantation during which brought many exciting happenings. The HUGE house was any racers dream and the track was spectacular both weekends. Straight-aways, palmettos, whoops, mudd ...you name it, it was there. The spectator area was one of the better ones with a good jump right in front. A few people took advantage of this (not mentioning any names) and geeked it right in front of everyone. Next time I'll just roll it...

Saturday night, if you didn't eat that BBQ dinner you missed out. Later on, there was a band and a 12 year old future country star that blew everyone out of the water. (She sure knew how to work it.) It was quite a laugh to watch all the big names in FTR out there on the dance floor keeping a beat (or trying to). And for all you guys that didn't want to try, you probably stayed by the bonfire and watched.

Almost everyone will agree it was a great idea to have a place where the FTR could eat, relax, and chat with other riders that they probably had never talked to before or had just seen around. Everyone usually goes back to their separate camps to do the same ol' thing and this brought everyone together as one group.

My boy Travis Hullfish #113 in Mini B was running hot at the first hare scrambles and left everyone for dead, finishing all of the 5 laps in the 2 hour time slot, high pointing the event.

Super Vintage A rider Jonny Simpkins #41 smoked 'em both weekends with two killer rides that left him two 1st place trophies. I heard those old bikes are sometimes as fun as the new ones.

Finishing 4th overall the first weekend was Pierre Debus 1st place in A250. Obviously he has been eating his wheaties and kept 2nd place rider Johnnie Grigsby Jr. about 30 seconds away.

The CFTR boys were haulin' at the Benefit run. Seth Lang #22 and Robert Cuevas #69 in B-Open were battling until the end with Seth holding Robert off by a little less than 10 seconds. Because the track was mostly wide open fields towards the end, it was hard to catch up last minute (unless you run high gearing of course.) LiL' Maynard Patterson #9 in A250 finished 1st in his class and ended up 7th overall. Blake Hodge #5 riding the Katoom in C-4Stroke won his class by a minute to Tim Willis # 92. Eric Gilbert #711 was leading his class, B4-Stroke, you know feeling good, when he comes across a rider down on the ground. Many of you might have pulled the, "You all right bro" move, but Eric stayed with the guy until medical attention arrived. He COULD have, seeing that the guy was hurt, kept going and told a course marshal maybe 3, 4 or 6 miles later. Eric stayed right by the guys side talking to him, doing everything he could. That's what FTR is about.

What's Not

Well, as the sun was coming down the races were still on, as the Quad riders came in around 5-6 o'clock. I heard it was getting pretty dark back in those woods. You were the lucky one if you had a headlight. You also were one of the lucky ones if you happened to get caught behind that pack of 13 or 14 Quad Women riders!

Picture this, you come around on your second to last lap and your pit crew, whoever they are, tells you the 1st place rider is "RIGHT THERE." So being the competitive rider you are, you get ON IT! You ride as hard as you can on your last lap, pass the rider like he (or she) is standing still, and hear "the chicane's closed," when you get to the finish. You've holed out and all that hard work was for nothing because you're still 2nd.

Some of you may or may not know this but we are NOT racing for a million dollars, a new bike, or anything along those lines. This is a FUN sport and we do it because it is FUN. If you see someone on the side of the trail not moving, crying with their leg wrapped around their neck, stop and see if they are okay. And don't just shout "Are you O.K.?" while psyching up for the next turn. Make sure they give you the thumbs up sign before you move on. You'd be glad if it was you on the ground.
